

University of New Hampshire
Franklin Pierce School of Law

Bring the IP Powerhouse to Your House

Hybrid Juris Doctor in Intellectual Property, Technology, and Information Law

Join the first Hybrid Juris Doctor (JD) Program in the US with a focus on Intellectual Property, Technology, and Information Law, and earn your JD primarily online with only minimal in-person commitments.

Innovative online instruction and coursework includes:

- live and pre-recorded video lectures
- reading and writing assignments
- assessments
- discussion board contributions
- virtual office hours and 1-to-1 real-time engagement opportunities with faculty and fellow students

Program Features

- Online delivery with minimal residential requirements
(fall term—two periods of 3-5 days each, spring & summer terms— one period of 3-5 days)
- Access to devoted full-time world-class IP faculty and legal experts
- Rigorous JD curriculum (including the opportunity to participate in our legal residency program)
- Full student services and academic support
- Flexibility to not disrupt your current employment or home-life (video lectures and coursework completed on your schedule)
- Complete degree in 10 semesters (3.5 years)
- 24/7 online technical support

Is the Hybrid JD for me?

This program fills a specific need for working professionals who are unable or unwilling to leave their full-time jobs to relocate or attend law school full time but are motivated by the ability to advance their career, the impact of intellectual property in their current role, a desire to better understand their industry, interest in increased interdepartmental collaboration, or to acquire additional strategies to help with job efficiency.

For more information about our bar passage and employment outcomes, please see our Consumer Information (ABA Required Disclosures) at <https://law.unh.edu/about/consumer-information-aba-required-disclosures>. To learn more about how our employment outcomes compare to those at other schools, please visit us at <https://law.unh.edu/careers>.

Earn your JD from wherever you are in the world.

International Applicants Welcome

International applicants looking to add to their résumé or practice law in the US are encouraged to apply to the mostly online Hybrid JD program.

International applicants are required to submit the following:

- e-Application through LSAC.org
- LSAT or GRE score
- Proof of English language proficiency (TOEFL/IELTS)
- Personal statement
- Additional statement of your interest in Intellectual Property
- 2-3 letters of recommendation
- Transcript(s)
- Résumé

Financial Assistance

International students are eligible for our merit, Jorda and Opportunity scholarships. Learn more about our financial aid policies for international students on the “international funding sources” tab at law.unh.edu/admissions/financial-aid.

Nicholas Barber '22

“ I had a desire to attend law school but was working a full-time, rotating shift schedule that would not allow for me to attend a traditional evening law school program. The flexible Hybrid JD program afforded me the opportunity to keep my job and continue to provide for my family while pursuing my dream of attending law school.”

The flexibility of the Hybrid JD at UNH Franklin Pierce enables me to plan my week according to when and where I want to complete my coursework. I'm still able to spend time with my wife and two children and complete my course load.”